Accredited vocational training courses for young people

YMCA

Project Alfie

Project Alfie aims to link YMCA Key College's students to local employers in order to create opportunities to experience the world of work and develop realistic but aspirational goals for the future.

What does being a Project Alfie partner mean?

- YMCA Key College students, accompanied and supported throughout by a member of staff, will spend up to a day in the work place.
 - During the day, the employer will arrange for the students to meet with a variety of people, sharing details of their job role and career pathway. The aim is to broaden students horizons and boost their employability.
 - The experience gained by students will contribute to the work they are completing for their City & Guilds qualification.
 - The employer will have the opportunity to discuss a more formal work placement with the visiting students where there is a particular interest or opportunity.
- To find out more or register interest in becoming a Project Alfie employer, please contact the YMCA Key College team:
